

Bringing in the light

We have reached a crucial time in the changes that are going ahead and it is time for more focus. Focus is needed by those working in the light to bring in more light. Light is coming down in abundance at this present time, but it is wasted if it is not channelled in the right way. It is for those who are working in the light to bring it into a better place. In order for the light to be channelled in a positive way, those working in the light need to take the shadows out of their day.

It is time for things to be dealt with. For old problems to be solved. For the past ways to be shed and for you to brighten the thoughts in your head. There are many who although doing brilliant work with others, have yet to do the work on themselves. It is time to understand what those problems are and to let them go. These are not always obvious and so it is important to see things clearly by standing back and observing for a while. Allow yourself some time to just be. Free your mind and allow yourself to fly around like a bird being above the surface of what is going on and tweeting only when you need to be heard.

If you stand still and close your eyes, imagine that there is steam lifting off from you. Feel the steam absorbing back in to the atmosphere and as it does feel the inner you cleansing. As you allow off this outer layer of blocks that are blocking you, you will start to see things more clearly and you will begin to understand more of what it is that needs to be done in order to allow you to truly sit in the light. For sitting in the light and becoming a strong beacon for others around you to follow, watch and listen is part of the journey you have chosen in order to help with the changes that are to occur.

2012 is a true year of change. Changes that we have not experienced before because we have not been moving into these new dimensions until now. So allow yourself to appreciate every part of who you are and know that all that you are doing is perfect for who you are and what you are to be doing. Time is of the essence. The planet is seeking its revenge and unless the people upon it start to make the changes necessary, it will find new ways to speak out for what it wants. So be brave and know that each difficult challenge that you deal with will be closer to bringing you into a light place. It may seem that you are in a bright place already, but in order to be in the new dimensions old and negative thoughts and ways of being must be ruled out. So fear of what is to become needs to be elevated. This can only be done if people are willing to let go and be part of the change.

Being in the light means leading a life that is very different from what you have been used to. It means stepping out of your own stories and being able to see each challenge that is given to you as a part of your growth rather than another hurdle to face. Positivity and laughter will help lift you into a higher vibration, one that will allow you to totally absorb the light that is coming through. The more people who are clear of the negativity and fear the stronger the light that will be retained on the earth, the more quickly the earth will recover from its hurt, and the quicker the world will start to move in to a much friendlier and harmonious way of being.

There is no magic to being a Lightworker, only a dedication to be free of old ways and to embrace the new. Standing out from the crowd around you may seem like a difficult task, but it is important if you want this era of change to succeed. The more you stand out the more people will start to look at you and wonder what it is that you are doing that is different from themselves. The brighter and lighter you become the more people will want to follow you and learn more. So be excited by this opportunity to make a difference and allow yourself to totally embrace the light. Allow yourself to be an important cog in this wheel of change.

Think of yourself as the sun. Imagine people around absorbing the wonderful brightness of your aura and the heat of your rays. Know that people are happier when the sun is out, and so they will be happier to see you out and about. There are those who will prefer the dark, and they will be drawn away from you. For there are those who will not want to come out of their drama for it suits them to stay in that place. For to come out of their drama means to join a different race. One that is positive and light and that is not their plight. For they have enjoyed being negative and enjoyed the attention it has brought. They are not willing to let go of this feeling. It is not for you to judge them or expect them to but to allow them to continue on as they wish. It will be them that will feel like the odd one out at some point when more and more people are wanting the lighter brighter way of being. So just know that you will be shown the right path for you and no matter what others do, just stay on the path that is right for you. Others will do what they want to do. Ultimately their life will go in a different direction to yours. It is not for you to worry about this but to enjoy the new bliss that you are in and enjoy the light as it lifts you higher and higher into a happier place of being.

There are many new energies being brought down to the earth which are all here to help with this transition. These energies will again help some to feel brighter and lighter and cause others to want to hide further in the dark. Whichever path you choose, ensure that you are happy with it. Life is about being happy and finding a way forward that brings you enjoyment and fun. Sadly this has not become the case for many and that is why we are in the state we are in. There is nothing that you can do about the overall picture because you are only a very small spectacle in the scheme of things, but if you bring about change by bringing in more light, the more people that do this, the more likely the change can occur. Healing others is a wonderful gift and something that you will find yourself doing more and more of the brighter and lighter you become. So by spending the time on yourself now will mean that more people can be healed in the future.

So the message is be brave and be proud to stand out of the crowd and bring in the light to heal the people and the earth. Know that by doing so you will be making a difference that in the end can only lead to a better world to live in and a brighter future for all those yet to be born.