

Children of the World

There is a star shining brightly in the sky at night for each of the children of the world. For the children of our world are the lights to the future. They are the leaders of what is to be. So in order to be the lights that they are it is time to allow them to be free. Time to show them that it is ok to be who they are and to tap into the true essence of themselves.

Old patterns and behaviours have been set for generations and it is time to break free of these. To show the children of the world that they are amazing in every way and that what they have to say makes a difference to those around them. For the children that have been born in these later years and are being born from this day forth are all highly spiritual and carry with them information that will change the world. Information that will show others a new way of being, a way that is freeing.

Their understanding of the world and its surroundings are far greater than have been known before and so will open new doors of understanding to those around them. So rather than dismissing what they might have to say, try to see it from their perspective. Try to understand what it is that is being shown to you. For what is being shown is there to help you and to give you the knowledge to develop and grow. To help you to begin to truly flow.

There will be amongst these children pioneers who will strive to make big differences in the world. Differences that will change the view of others to such an extent that they won't be able to dispute what they say but will instead begin to change that very day. So look after the children of the world for it is these children who are your future. It is these children who will continue to carry on the light and to make things brighter and lighter in this world.

Do not be afraid to set your children free and to be true to who they really are. Encourage them to be coming from a place of the heart and show them love at every opportunity that you can. For love is what everyone carries. It is a great gift that is inside all of you. Know that it is ok to love freely and to be love in all you do.

Remember more children are coming and as they do the world around you will be changing and transforming into a much brighter and lighter place than before. Allow them to lead the way and show this world into a brighter way of being. One that is much more freeing. Where the darkness that has set in before will begin to be shown the door.

There is nothing to fear only a new world to embrace. Exciting times ahead. So be welcoming to it all and allow yourself the time to embrace and appreciate all you see. Allow yourself to be free.
