

World at Peace

Life on earth has become a hum drum of people rushing from one place to the next. The essence of the very being that they are has been lost a long time ago. For they have no longer learnt to listen to the person they call themselves.

So now is a time when change is to reach them and to teach them how to bring back the peace in side of them. For peace is something that we would all like to find in our hearts and in our minds. It is a time for the light to reach on through and to help those who have yet to find out what to do. For there are many who are still in a muddle, diving in one puddle after another making mud pies where ever they go. For they have not learnt to set themselves free and learn to simply just be.

So in order for things to change on this earth, there are things that are to begin to happen. Things that will spark off a debate or two, where people will sit up and wonder what is going to happen next. For the changes that will happen are not for the faint hearted. They are not just a case of a few rough winds or an odd volcano or two exploding. No the changes will be much more louder than this for that is the only way in the end this earth will reach bliss.

For how can the world continue to go on as it is? How can the people continue to pretend that it is ok to do things as they always have? Surely for most, common sense would help them to see that the greed and the lack of love that is in the world is going to eventually break the knees of the world that they live in and the people are going to be reaching out for something new to help them survive.

So whether you are already shining your light or are not even aware of this plight, it is finally time to let go of all that you know and learn to live your life in a different way that will set you free from the thoughts that you have every day that drag you down in some way. Learn to truly live in the light that you know is coming through for you and so enjoy the life that you have on this earth as you do. Know that time of change is happening now. The clouds that have been forming for a while are beginning to drift into a place where the change will begin to cause shadows over certain places.

No matter where you are or what you believe in, this is a change that is much needed. Things have gone on long enough. Be brave and be kind to yourself and others and know that the change is one that can only bring with it great joy to the world in the end. However, during the process it may drive a few round the bend and it certainly will mean the loss of the odd friend or two as the planet gets on with the work it must do.

When things are done and the dust starts to settle, there will be much love and beauty all around and the world will be a much more peaceful and wonderful place to be. A place where the light will be bright and the people on the earth will be feeling much happier about their health and their well being in general. They will feel at peace and will treasure this feeling. They will truly appreciate the new place that has been formed and embrace the new world that comes along with it.

So don't be scared of what is to come for what is to come is nothing but beauty and light. A world that is peaceful and bright. Just hold on to this thought in your mind, no matter what is thrown at you, and know that will help guide you through anything that this change may bring. May true peace be in the world at last for the people of the world to share.